

KIM LAWRENCE

Artist & Sculptor

Circle of Love Collection, Enesco Gallery

Kim Lawrence designs home accessories and figurines in many different mediums and styles and is the artist behind Enesco's popular Circle of Love collection.

Kim holds a degree in illustration from Northern Illinois University. After a couple of years working for a Chicago area advertising agency, she joined Enesco in 1987 as a graphic designer, before moving into product development. She has been designing figurines and home accents for the company ever since.

Kim receives artistic inspiration by working in a variety of materials, including resin and porcelain and also loves the brainstorming process: 'I find satisfaction in discovering that next unique idea,' she says, 'It's wonderful when I come up with an idea, know it's a good one, and then see the end result when my artwork is translated into a three-dimensional figure.'

When Kim is not designing for Enesco, she enjoys creating contemporary abstract paintings and ink drawings with an inspiring message and meaning. 'I love designing realistically as seen in some of my figurine lines, but to communicate more complex emotion and thought provoking messages, I prefer the freedom of abstraction. I just like to relax and let the color and line flow out onto the canvas.'
